

RESIST EFFORT TO BRING HER BACK

Requisition for Bertha Boykin Opposed by Friends of Woman in Washington.

COMMISSION HERE FRIDAY

Plan for Gettysburg Memorial Not Yet Decided On—News Notes From Capitol.

Opposition to the issuance of requisition papers is not an ordinary occurrence, but such a case has developed at the Capitol and will be heard by Governor Swanson tomorrow. The prisoner is Bertha Boykin, a young woman of Norfolk, who is under arrest in Washington, D. C., on the charge of grand larceny committed in Norfolk. The Norfolk officials have asked the Governor for a requisition for her from the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, and this motion is being resisted by the attorney for the prisoner. The young woman seems to have friends at work in her behalf, who contend that in this case requisition papers should not issue.

Gettysburg Commission.
The Virginia Gettysburg Commission will hold a meeting in Governor Swanson's office in the Capitol on Friday. That commission has still under consideration various plans for a suitable memorial to Virginia troops on the national battlefield, and it is supposed to report to the next session of the Legislature, but so far nothing has been done. Something definite may be decided upon at Friday's meeting. It is likely that General Lomax, of the National Gettysburg Commission, will attend. The members of the commission are: United States Senator John W. Daniel, Governor Claude A. Swanson, Colonel H. A. Edmondson, S. P. Read, and Colonel Thomas Smith.

Annual Report on Labor.
State Labor Commissioner Doherty is completing work on his annual report, which will go to the printer next month. An immense amount of statistical material has been put together for this statement, and much effort has been expended in making it a correct resume of labor conditions in the State.

The report will be made to the Governor. Between October 1 and 15, the printer Bottom will award the contract, and as soon as it is awarded he will secure the report from the Governor and turn it over to the contractor.

Commissioner Doherty estimates that the book will contain about 300 pages. Four thousand copies will be printed. The work will be in the hands of two printers for several weeks.

Requisition issued.
Requisition papers were issued yesterday by the Governor for W. Howard Wilson, a Norfolk negro, who is under arrest in Philadelphia. The specific crime with which Wilson is charged is the robbery of the home of W. W. Seely, at Lambert's Point, of property valued at $158. He is suspected, however, of a long series of burglaries numbering more than fifty, committed during the last few months. A messenger left last evening for Philadelphia to bring Wilson to Norfolk.

Commissioner Wilson Returns.
State Highway Commissioner Wilson returned to his office at the Capitol yesterday, after a trip to Charlottesville and Louisa. He attended the good roads rally at Louisa on Monday, and was much pleased with the interest manifested and with the earnest spirit for better roads which was evident.

Lieutenant Hubbard Resigns.
Second Lieutenant Frank W. Hubbard, of Company I, First Virginia Regiment, of Farmville, has forwarded his resignation to Adjutant-General Anderson. The regimental commander has been ordered to provide for filling the vacancy.

During Dressmaking Time
you need shears that will cut clean and smooth the heaviest cloth or the finest silk equally well. The ideal shear for the home or the shop, is the Wiss. They stay sharp and are proof against breakage.

the vacancy and any other vacancies which may result from this resignation.

Judge Mullen Designated.
Judge J. M. Mullen, of Petersburg, was yesterday designated by Governor Swanson to hold a special term of the Circuit Court of Culpeper county for Judge Daniel A. Grimley, of the Ninth Judicial Circuit, who is disqualified to sit in the case of Hale et al. vs. Saunders's exor. et al.

Ranks as Captain.
A commission was issued yesterday by the Governor and the Adjutant-General to G. Murrell Anderson as assistant professor of English and history at the Virginia Military Institute, with the rank of captain of infantry.

No Camp Site Decision Yet.
Another meeting of the State Military Board was held at the Governor's office yesterday morning, but no decision was reached or even approached as to the purchase of a rifle range and camp ground for Virginia troops. Colonel Charles A. Dempsey, U. S. A., retired, was requested to examine several possible sites and to report later to the board. Several times since the passage of the act authorizing this purchase sites have been tentatively selected, but on each occasion some obstacle arose which caused the abandonment of the proposed purchase.

Big Enrollment at V. M. I.
According to a letter received yesterday by Adjutant-General Charles J. Anderson from Superintendent E. W. Nichols, of the Virginia Military Institute, 307 students have already matriculated at that institution. The superintendent further says that 61 old men are still out, and will probably come in later, and that 25 more new men are expected, making a probable total enrollment of not fewer than 375.

BIJOU ATTENDANT FOUGHT IN ALLEY

Policeman Nabs Him Later After Failing to Follow Through Narrow Space.

Policeman Johnson last night proved his prowess as a runner, but when it came to passing through a "fat man's agency"—the mouth of an alley—in which his quarry had taken refuge, he was decidedly nonplussed, and could only gasp and gaze at the fugitive whose more slender proportions had permitted him to pass through. The officer was trying to catch T. E. Gentry, whom he wanted on a charge of fighting. Gentry is an attendant at the Bijou Theatre, and it seems that he got into an altercation with some one, and that they decided to have it

JEWISH NEW YEAR BEGINS AT SUNSET

To-Day the First of a Ten-Day Season of Most Solemn Character.

To-day is the Jewish New Year, beginning at sunset, for the synagogue reckons the days of all festival or Sabbath observances from sunset to sunset. In Richmond the holiday season will be celebrated with due ceremony. Services will be held in the local synagogues this evening and to-morrow morning.

"The new year of the synagogue, known in Hebrew as 'Rosh Hashanah,' and in English as 'Jewish New Year,' is a day of solemn and serious observance. Its principal theme is the flight of time, the uncertainty of human life, the certainty of death. It falls on the first day of the seventh month of the Hebrew calendar, and is to-day the spiritualized development of what was a civic celebration. It is one of the most sacred of the holy days, and its observance is practically universal among all classes of the Jewish people. Among the very orthodox, a second day is observed, but this custom is growing narrower with each year.

"The New Year begins a ten-day season of solemn character, which culminates in the great fast of the Day of Atonement. There has been, in the course of time, in the Jewish church, as in all other a mass of peculiar ceremonial grown up about these solemn festival days, but these have all practically passed away, and any narrative which speaks of outlandish customs in connection with the New Year or Atonement Day is more an exposure of ignorance than of piety.

"The service of the modern synagogue, while it retains a considerable element of Hebrew and certain traditional forms and ritual, is a simple, earnest and impressive service. It consists of prayer and song. The prayers are from a prescribed ritual, and include selections from the Bible and the Talmud. The service is the blowing of the Shofar, or ram's horn, which is simply a symbol of the awakening voice of conscience. A portion of the Pentateuch read on this day contains the account of the binding of Isaac. The ram's horn is a reminiscence of the animal which the patriarch offered in place of his child.

All Jewish business houses will be closed, and the synagogue will be filled to-day. At Beth Abahab, the service will begin this evening at 6 o'clock. In the morning at 10, Dr. Callish will preach at both services, his subject for this evening being 'The Yuletide of the New Year,' and for to-morrow morning, 'The Religion of the Twentieth Century.'

COAST ARTILLERY TO GET PRACTICE

First and Second Companies Study Methods of Fort Attack and Defense.

Methods of attack and defense of forts will be one of the principal subjects of instruction and practice at the encampment of the First and Second Companies of Coast Artillery, of Norfolk, which begins at Fort Monroe to-day. The encampment will end on September 25.

Other subjects of study will be location and use of searchlights, efficiency of ammunition service, location and efficiency of submarine defense, position-finding and effects of material. The Coast Artillery Corps will be under command of Lieutenant-Colonel Clarence P. Townsley, with the assistance of Captain J. F. Howell. The searchlight officers will be Captain R. S. Abernethy, and the company commander, First Lieutenant L. C. Crawford.

Upon arrival to-day at Fort Monroe the tents will be pitched and the baggage disposed of, followed by guard mount. To-morrow the troops will set up their exercises, with instruction in nomenclature of coast artillery material.

Lectures will be delivered each evening, which the officers are required to attend, and to which the enlisted men are invited. Next week routine work will be the rule until Thursday and Friday, when the batteries will be attacked and defended and all the details of mimic war will be taken up. The troops will be paid off on September 25, and will then break camp and depart for home.

SUGGESTED SAME IDEA LABOR DAY

L. Z. Morris Warmly Commends Plan to Build Home for Disabled People.

Some time before the last Labor Day, after which it was suggested by a local leader that members of labor unions, instead of spending their money in celebrating the holiday, should use it for the establishment of a home for aged laborers and orphan children, L. Z. Morris had conceived a somewhat similar idea, though of much larger scope. Without knowing that any one had thought of it, Mr. Morris talked over the scheme with Lieutenant-Governor J. Taylor Elyson and several others on Labor Day.

"It just shows," said Mr. Morris yesterday, "that great minds run in the same channels. Until I saw your story in The Times-Dispatch I had no idea that any one else had thought of it, but the man who suggested it, whoever he was, conceived very nearly the scheme that I outlined to Governor Elyson and several others with whom I talked on the subject."

The plan proposed by Mr. Morris, though national in extent, is eminently practical and could easily be brought into effect here next September. If labor organizations throughout the country would take it up, he suggests that every member of a union, instead of taking holiday on the first Monday in September, as has been the custom, remain at his work and give the entire proceeds of the day's labor to a fund for the building and maintenance of a home.

He proposes that the United States be divided into sections, according to population, and that each union remit to its designated treasurer the proceeds of every Labor Day. In this way he is certain that every section in the country would within a few years be equipped with a home adequate to take care of all aged members and orphans.

"There is no trade in the world," said Mr. Morris yesterday, "that does not have members being on the streets, and nothing would better serve to eliminate this than a home, built partly by their own efforts, where they could take refuge when unable to work. I figure that if all labor organizations in the United States should adopt this method instead of celebrating Labor Day as they have formerly, there would be raised in the entire country much more than $1,000,000 each year."

Mr. Morris explained that his plan was based on the same principle adopted by the Police Benevolent Association, in which each man pays the same amount yearly, and each has the same right to support in case he becomes too old to work or is otherwise disabled.

COMMITTEE WILL ARRANGE PROGRAM

Entertainment Features Planned for American Public Health Association Next Month.

Plans for the entertainment of the American Public Health Association, which begins a three-day session here on October 19, were tentatively agreed upon yesterday at a conference held at the City Hall. Indications point to an attendance of more than 300, with representative people from all parts of the United States, Canada, Cuba and Mexico.

The convention will be formally opened at the Jefferson Hotel Auditorium on the evening of October 19, with addresses of welcome, responses, and the annual address of the president, followed by an informal reception. On the evening of October 20 there will be a smoker and collation for delegates, with a trip down the James River the next day as far as Westover.

There will be a motor-car trip for the women, although some special and extra entertainment will be provided for those who accompany the members.

Open to the Public.
It was pointed out yesterday that the public will have the privilege of attending all sessions of the convention, physicians especially being reminded that they will be welcomed. A badge has been provided, bearing the name of the physician, and a red cross, which will make a handsome and attractive souvenir of the occasion.

Dr. P. C. Levy is chairman of the entertainment committee. Those assisting him are Dr. McGuire Newton, of the Richmond Academy of Medicine; Dr. Surgery Dr. Allen W. Freeman, of the State Board of Health; P. M. Fry, representing the Chamber of Commerce; R. S. Harwood, the Business Men's Club; H. Harwood, the T. P. A.; and Miss S. H. Cabaniss, the Instructive Visiting Nurses' Association.

CRAP GAME ENDS IN ATTEMPT TO KILL

Army Gun Used by David Gore in Effort to Snuff Out William Gilliam's Life.

William Gilliam, colored, escaped with his life from a desperate battle of the poor aim of one David Gore, who, with a Mauser or Krag Jorgensen, or some make of equal note, stood in his doorway, at Seventeenth and Lowndes Streets, and fired at the fleeing Gilliam a bullet that would have passed through a dozen men and never have noticed it.

dice, and, seeing no other way of settling the dispute, Gore went home for his gun. Gilliam passed by, and the other negro took aim from his doorway. He shot straight down the street, and the wonder is that he did not hit somebody else. The last heard from the bullet was when it passed through Windy Point at seventy miles an hour. People there thought it was a comet, but ducked their heads when they heard it pass. It is probably now passing out over the Atlantic.

Policemen Jennings and Folkes raided Gore's house, but he escaped from the rear by jumping out onto the roof of a shed, and from thence to the ground. Officer Jennings fired at him once, and a Chesapeake and Ohio watchman fired at him twice. It is supposed that none of the bullets took effect, as the man continued to run.

The weapon, a terrible looking engine, apparently new, was confiscated and taken to the First Station. It is evidently a gun of fine make, and apparently of a model once used by the army. How Gore got possession of it will probably be one of the questions put to him if he is ever captured.

HOPES TO ESCAPE A FEDERAL PRISON

Apparently impatient for the time to come when he may be sent to the Atlanta prison for a term of from three to five years, Thomas J. Lewis, alias Kimball, now a prisoner in the City Jail, is restless, and accompanying this there seems to be a determination on his part to get out of spending the next few years in the City Jail. Lewis, from all accounts, will plead insanity as a motive for his crime.

Having been arrested in July, Lewis, or Kimball, has already spent the most tiresome and uncomfortable portion of the year behind the bars, but never has he felt that he would keep him here longer than he now has reason to think. His case will be among those to be tried at the October term of the United States District Court.

Lewis is one of the most interesting persons that ever came under the eyes of the local jail officials. Although obedient to the dictates of his keepers, the man sometimes pretends to become violent, and attempts to show that he is crazy. The Federal and city officials refuse to believe that this will save the man from prison. Federal inspectors consider him a dangerous man, and it is believed that he is wanted in other cities, although attempts to place his former actions have proved futile.

Lewis has seldom been visited in the jail, despite the fact that he is believed to have a wife in Manchester, who is said to have arrived after his arrest. Lewis is wanted for stealing money from the stamp window in the post-office at the late last year, in connection with certain frauds alleged to have been perpetrated against several of the local banks.

GOOD ROADS DAY FEATURE AT FAIR

"After looking over the files and accounts of the fair already held in Virginia," said Manager Mark Lloyd yesterday, "I find that we have already exceeded greatly the number of exhibits at previous fairs, and the indications point to a record-breaking increase in this direction. We are already congested for space, but have made adequate provision to have exhibits arriving within the limit set."

"I am so busy with various matters pertaining to the fair that I cannot begin to keep pace with the correspondence, and those who expect acknowledgments of checks sent me must be patient, for the actual truth is that I have been too busy to get them to the bank."

Good roads enthusiasts will be glad to learn that the first day of the fair will be the "Good Roads Day," thus emphasizing the importance of that widely agitated reform. An interesting program has been prepared.

The feature which will interest all the young and the old, will be "Wah Hoo Lane," where all the shows and amusing features will be held. The Philadelphia fair, which is expected to be interesting to all, and will have no small educational value, as it will reproduce as nearly as possible life in the far away American possessions. All sorts of freaks and mysteries and laugh-producers will be on the program, and the cry of the speller, who has excavated all the long words in the dictionary, will be heard in the land.

Each day of the fair has been dedicated to some special movement or profession, and the program on these days will be appropriate and unlike the others.

Real Estate News

Real estate opened weak at the beginning of this week, and it was not better yesterday, though there are signs of coming improvement. Only small sales were made yesterday, but the big ones pending still hanging fire. It is expected, if the papers are signed, that there will be two or three announcements to-day.

J. Thompson Brown & Company closed yesterday the sale of the house at 2114 Jefferson Place for $9,500 cash. This location has improved more than any spot in Jefferson Ward, and the result proves that the city acted wisely

Vaughan & Williams closed the sale of the house at 1111 Miller Avenue, Barton Heights, to Mrs. M. R. Andrews, of Petersburg, for $3,900.
